BELLE GLADE FARED

The continuity of the law violation upon him. He also uses the sliding scale of fines to suit the offense.

His Police Department has been years in more congested and workable and it is again an active department of the city government and not a moribund appearing tomb. The Chief is new, his office quarters are new, and his staff of officers are men who know police work, and who work on a system common to police policy. The Chief has been installed at the station and in the prowl cars, so that instant contact can be had at all times, thus giving the city added protection.

Two new mobile units were introduced and passed to its first reading. The provisions of ordinance will provide for the correction of certain undesired practices, and add many features which will meet demands of the Southern Underwriters. The Underwriters are anxious to make an inspection and rearing in Belle Glade in March, and the city officials are anxious to have everything in order, so that more favorable classification of fire ratings may be secured.

The Colored Civic League appeared and requested a donation for the colored Christmas festival. A donation of $50 was granted.

The Pepsi-Cola Company of the city 3000 metal disks for line marking of the streets, which were accepted. It is expected that the Coca-Cola corporation will make a like donation. Such marking will be done by the Police and Street Department.

The Commission authorized the receding of bid, a check of the city officials to the city and to the park. The city will furnish the common labor and a part of the building material. Plans were also presented showing tentative improvement and changes at the city property, to provide more jail space, more room housing of fire fighting equipment, the removal of several small buildings to a new location, and the establishments of a new prisoner stockade for working prisoners at the Water works lot.

A small power sprayer for use of DDT at the dump grounds and elsewhere about the city was purchased. It is needed, is to be provided for the Sanitary department for use of small tool and shelter house at the dump grounds.

New ordinances relating to garbage fee collection licenses for mechanical vending machines, and the general Occupational license were passed to their final reading.

had torn it down, and argued until he struck the old man with his fist. J. W. Cummings made a breaking and entry at the Robert Burney store, Christmas eve, but was apprehended before he could do any robbery. He admitted his guilt and is now a guest of Sheriff Kirk.

"Deacon" Hart, an aged negro of 78 years, heretofore had had a pretty good record, but according to his own words the devil got after him on Christmas eve, and he got a bill more of the corn and wine that his constitution would stand. He made him fighting mad, so he accused himself by abusing and chasing his wife around with a shot gun, and also abusing one of the children in the home. Throughout the case, and regretful of his down fall, he appeared most penitent before Judge Tedder, who also found him a kinder heart himself, especially concerning Christmas celebrations, and so the court satisfied the law in his decision, and sent the old toothless man home happy.

As a result of such ceremonies following will provide in official stations during the year 1949: Worshipful Master, L. E. Will; Senior warden, L. E. Boyal; junior warden, C. E. Maynard; secretary, W. P. Kirk; treasurer, Al Kirkman; senior deacon, William Jeffries; junior deacon, William Evans; senior and junior stewards, Jack D. Johnson and Hans Stier, chaplain, J. E. Evans; Tyler, C. E. Critchfield; Marshal, Ralph Freeman. All these officers made acceptance talks.

On accepting the gavel, Worshipful Master Will, delivered a wonderful Masonic address, which received the enthusiastic acclamation of the assembled members who made short talks were Joe Cherry, A. Q. Howell, Judge Gledhill called out going master, John Kirk, to the altar, and spoke words of appreciation for his faithful and efficient work during the three years he had been traveling.

Beck, the Commission, directed the license be revoked and the attending fee refunded.

Judge George Hubbell appeared before the Commission and commended the building of the new foot bridge at the school house, but also commended the building of the bridge should be erected near the railway trestle, as a public convenience for people working in the packing house district. He offered to make a substantial donation toward the cost.

A new ordinance prepared by Chief Will, the Building Inspector and the Solicitor, looking forward to the establishment of a Fire Prevention Bureau, was introduced and passed to its first reading. The provisions of ordinance will provide for the correction of certain undesired practices, and add many features which will meet demands of the Southern Underwriters.
